PERFORMING ARTS

Avondale College has a reputation for excellence in the performing arts, and with timetabled classes in music, dance and drama as well as numerous performance groups, highly trained educators and first class facilities, it's easy to see why.

As a student of the performing arts you have the opportunity to study music, dance and drama as part of your school day, while working towards credits in the internationally accredited NCEA (National Certificate of Educational Achievement) or the Cambridge International Examinations.

In addition there are numerous co-curricular performance groups to participate in, giving you a chance to hone your skills on and off the stage.

Our performing arts facilities are first rate, with two purpose-built dance studios, a fully equipped music suite including performance rooms and a recording studio, and a 750 seat theatre situated in our Performing Arts Centre.

“

I have loved every moment of my time here at Avondale College. Not only do I get to dance and act every day, but I was given the opportunity to lead a Japanese cultural dance group, performing at the world's largest secondary school's Pacific Island cultural festival.
